

Madison Adoption Associates

FREE Post-Adoption Support for Pennsylvania Families

Madison Adoption Associates works with the State Wide Adoption Network (SWAN) to provide post-adoption services for adopted children and their families. SWAN provides funding for these services to promote strong attachment and build a support network for families.

Serving families in Western and Southeastern, PA

Who is eligible?

All adopted children residing in the state of Pennsylvania are eligible for services once there is a finalized adoption. This includes children adopted domestically, internationally or by kin. Whether your child was just adopted or adopted a decade ago, if they are under 18, your family is eligible!

Assessment

A social worker develops a personalized plan to help your family.

Case Management

A social worker conducts monthly visits, can accompany the family to meetings, locates resources or makes calls for the family.

Respite

Funding is available for services to benefit the child and family such as camps, activities, or traditional respite including overnights or specialized childcare.

Support Groups

Groups are offered virtually and in-person to families who receive SWAN post permanency services. These groups offer a venue for support, socialization and education.

What is the cost?

FREE! Funding for this service comes from the PA Department of Public Welfare through the Statewide Adoption and Permanency Network ("SWAN"). Your income does not matter- any adoptive family is eligible for free services!

How can Families Access Services?

Adoptive families should call Madison Adoption Associates at (610) 459-4970 and talk to our staff to determine if these services can help your family. If interested in accessing services, families should call the SWAN hotline at 800-585-7926 for a brief phone interview. Make sure to request Madison as your preferred provider. SWAN will refer your family back to Madison.
